

Science journalism & reporting on conflict

 by Nisha Gaiind

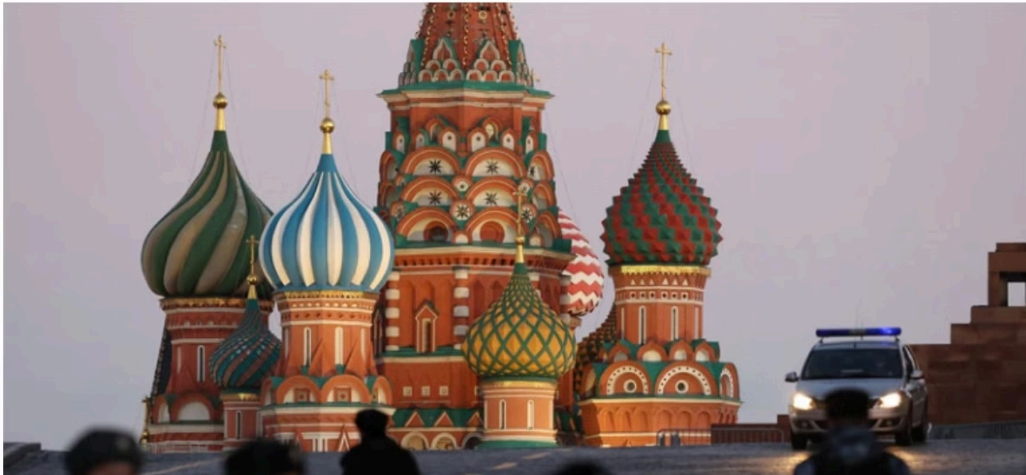

Nature reporting on the war in Ukraine

NEWS | 14 March 2022

Ukrainian researchers pressure journals to boycott Russian authors

Most publications are still considering manuscripts irrespective of nationality – but Russia plans to remove a requirement for scientists to publish in foreign titles.

By Holly Else

NEWS Q&A | 05 October 2023

'In case I die, I need to publish this paper': scientist who left the lab to fight in Ukraine

Neuroscientist Sergiy Sylantyev tells Nature that science and war cannot be separated.

By Loyal Liverpool

NEWS FEATURE | 06 May 2022 | Correction 09 May 2022

How three Ukrainian scientists are surviving Russia's brutal war

Helping, healing and fighting: researchers have become refugees, soldiers and activists in the face of a horrifying conflict.

By Nisha Gaiind

Post-conflict reporting

NEWS FEATURE | 05 April 2024

After the genocide: what scientists are learning from Rwanda

Thirty years after the genocide against the Tutsi in Rwanda, Nature met with researchers who are gaining insights that could help to prevent other atrocities and enable healing.

By Nisha Gaiind

