

Interested in doing some bookbinding?

Barry Clark
for new books, repairs & restoration books@chortlon21.co.uk

Wednesday 11 February: An Introduction to Bookbinding

[for total beginners, and others not too confident]

In this one-day workshop we will create three finished books: all using the simple but versatile pamphlet stitch. We will make a sewn softback pamphlet with a decorative dustwrapper, a single section hardback notebook with a cloth spine, and a multi-section concertina book. These three projects will introduce you to the essentials of all bookbinding: grain direction, folding and cutting paper, creating book sections, and sewing. And you will have three hand-made books to take home! We will be using glue so a protective apron is recommended.

Wednesday 15 April: A handy pocket notebook

We will make a small hardback notebook, suitable for the pocket or handbag. First, we will make the flat-back sewn book block, with tipped-on plain endpapers. We'll add a marker ribbon, endbands and spine limings. We will then make a cloth and decorative paper covered case (the covers) incorporating a French groove. Finally the book block and the covers are joined together - called 'casing-in'. We will be using glue so a protective apron is recommended.

Wednesday 17 June: Creating a portfolio for loose A4 sheets

Artists have long used portfolios to hold, protect and transport their work, however they are also useful for everyday filing, safely holding loose sheets in one place. They can be custom-made to any size - ours will be for holding A4 sheets. The strong outer case will be covered with an attractive decorative paper, protecting an internal expandable concertina pocket, all secured with a ribbon closure. We will be using glue so a protective apron is recommended.

Wednesday 16 September: A multi-section journal / notebook

This attractive A6 notebook/journal features an Italian patterned paper front cover (with a colour co-ordinated book cloth on the rear cover). It is sewn on tapes with a variegated-coloured linen thread, left exposed for added decorative effect. With a good quality notebook paper, it also gently opens flat for ease of use. A pleasure to use for oneself, or as a gift to a friend. We will be using glue so a protective apron is recommended.

Wednesday 11 November: Paper Magic!

An opportunity to get creative making a variety of ingenious, fun and useful items. We will re-create the almost forgotten milkman's Magic Wallet; the Turkish Map Fold (a way to present a whole page image in a small and attractive format); the Pop-Up invitation/greetings card for those special occasions or special people; and a decorative Clip Board for shopping lists etc. A treat for yourself and an opportunity to make some unique Christmas gifts. We will be using glue so a protective apron is recommended.

All workshops take place at the Portico library in central Manchester. They run from 10.00-4.00, with tea/coffee on arrival for a prompt start at 10.15am. All materials and tools will be provided. The £85 fee includes the cost of materials, tea/coffee on arrival and a light lunch. Workshops are limited to 12 participants so early booking is advised.

Please go to the Portico website for booking details:

<https://www.theportico.org.uk>

or email:

Events@theportico.org.uk

The workshops are run in partnership with the Society of Bookbinders, North West and North Wales Region.