ANNUAL REPORT

The London Ballet Circle was established in 1946 by Stanley Hawkins with Ninette de Valois (regarded as the founder of British ballet) as its first president. The LBC is the world's oldest independent ballet appreciation society. It became a charity in 2008 and its objects were widened in 2019. In summary these are:

- to promote and support dance and the kindred arts for the public benefit.
- to enhance public knowledge and appreciation of ballet and associated dance forms
- to encourage excellence, in particular by awarding bursaries for ballet/dance students
- to offer other charitable assistance for dance but not restricted to dance organisations.

The LBC sets out to achieve this in a number of ways by

- offering talks with dancers and leading creatives to members and the wider public
- arranging visits to ballet schools and company rehearsals
- giving bursaries and awards to dance and ballet students, and charitable donations to ballet companies and organisations to develop new work or to recognise their role in helping us achieve our objectives.
- promoting the art form to members through newsletters and to the world at large through the website and social media

The LBC continues to attract membership throughout the UK and worldwide through its events and online talks, where it is possible to arrange speakers from anywhere in the world and minimise the disruption to their busy schedules. Talks are free to members with a small charge for the public. Where live meetings are also screened online as a hybrid event, a charge is made to all members to cover the increasing cost of London venues with again a differential higher charge for others. All bookings are made through the website to eliminate cash handling.

The LBC remains committed to offering a wide range of dance related speakers and both live and online events. Successful live events are important but the LBC also needs to fulfill its charitable duties and not just seek financial viability.

ACHIEVEMENTS 2023-2024

In the year 2023-2024 subscriptions continued a slow but steady increase reaching a membership of just under 600. The LBC held a record 44 events with an attendance of nearly 1700 Members and guests.

Thanks to the generosity of members, one of the highlights of the year was to be able to increase the Choreographic Award, established in 2022, from £7,500 to £10,000 and to make it a biennial event. Our President, Dame Monica Mason, led the panel of judges and was joined by Christopher Marney (choreographer, teacher and Artistic Director of London City Ballet), Deborah Weiss (dance writer and critic) and Elena Glurjidze (director of the Masters of Ballet Academy). Submissions were received from ten schools and companies and the panel made their recommendations to the Trustees to make the following awards:

£3000 to Northern Ballet for their Sketches programme,
£3000 to the English National Ballet School towards their 3rd Year students' dissertations,
£2000 to the Birmingham Royal Ballet to support their Young Choreographers programme,

£1000 to the New English Ballet Theatre towards commissioning a new work by Matthew Ball and £1000 to the children's company Let's All Dance to support their new production of Puss in Boots.

Winners of the award invited LBC members to watch rehearsals or performances of these new works not just in London but also in Birmingham and, for the first time, joining the Friends of Northern Ballet in Leeds.

Linda Gainsbury, a lifelong supporter of ballet and vice-chair of the LBC had initiated this award to mark the 75th anniversary of the LBC. Following her death in April 2024 it was decided to rename the Choreographic Award the Gainsbury Award in her memory.

Further highlights were two popular hybrid events held at the Royal Ballet Upper School in Floral Street. For the first time the LBC joined with the Ashton Foundation in May to celebrate works performed by the Sarasota Ballet with the company directors Iain Webb and Margaret Barbieri In Conversation with Jane Pritchard, dance curator at the V&A. In October Matthew Ball, principal dancer with the Royal Ballet, entertained guests with stories about his career In Conversation with Deborah Weiss.

The pattern of monthly In Conversation Zoom meetings continued with past and present dancers, choreographers and directors from the Royal Ballet, Birmingham Royal Ballet, London City Ballet, English National Ballet, London Children's Ballet and the National Ballet of Canada companies. Visits were also made to watch rehearsals and classes with schools and companies such as Acosta Dance Centre, English National Ballet School, New English Ballet Theatre, Central School of Ballet, Northern Ballet, Ballet Black, Masters of Ballet Academy and, for the first time, to the Pett/Clausen-Knight company and to the London Vocational Ballet School.

Members were treated again to visits to tour the Freed's factory to see how pointe shoes are made, to the RAD headquarters for a reception prior to the Fonteyn Award competition and to the annual visit with the Ballet Association to the Royal Ballet Upper School. Members were also invited to watch a masterclass held by Alina Cojocaru, 'Dancing with the Stars' classes sponsored by Dance Forward and to the GradPRO London auditions and final event at Elmhurst Ballet School. The LBC was invited, for the second time, to run a stall at the delightful (if rather wet) Royal Ballet Summer Fair at White Lodge.

The LBC has continued with its proud tradition of awarding bursaries, scholarships and prizes to talented young students. The Stanley Hawkins bursary to attend Ballet Cymru's summer school was awarded to Carlin Dixon from the USA. The LBC also presented the Ninette de Valois award at the Royal Ballet School graduating ceremony to Rebecca Stewart and Emile Gooding who both subsequently joined the Company under the Aud Jebsen programme, and the Sir Peter Wright award was presented to Marlo Kempsey-Fagg at Elmhurst Ballet School. Leo Godfrey, from the English National Ballet School, was awarded the LBC prize at the third annual GradPRO International Showcase competition. Funding was also granted for three scholarships to the Yorkshire Ballet Seminars and also one to the Masters of Ballet Easter Intensive. At the National Dance Awards ceremony, hosted by Graham Watts, Chair of the Dance Critics' Circle, the LBC's prestigious award for Outstanding Male Classical Performance was presented to Brandon Lawrence from the Birmingham Royal Ballet for his role in Liebestod.

Money raised from ticket sales at events is given back to the host organisations and awards are made possible through generous donations and profits from membership subscriptions to the LBC.

FINANCIAL PERFORMANCE

The year was again successful financially, despite a (planned) small overall deficit of about £1,900. Funding was set aside to enable the Choreographic Awards to be made during the year and the Fund for this purpose also attracted restricted donations from members.

Together with annual commitments to support dance bursaries and awards and other donations, often following visits, the total charitable donations exceeded £30,000. This amounts to 84% of total expenditure. A full breakdown of LBC donations is appended to the Accounts.

The increasing membership and the extensive events programme were reflected in significant income growth. Most members now make e-commerce transactions and although this incurs some additional costs (card processing and website membership database costs), the handling of cheques can also incur costs. The circulation of a printed newsletter by post has been further reduced to a very small number of long-standing members without email.

The LBC received a gift of £1,000 “for the enjoyment of members” in the will of a former member and together with other donations will enable a social event to be held in early 2025.

RESERVES AND ACCOUNTING

While most of the expenditure is charitable donations, which could be varied according to income to maintain a suitable financial position, in practice the LBC has a number of long-standing student awards which it wishes to sustain to provide certainty to the receiving organisations. Having built up the expectations of a larger and more dispersed membership, the LBC also needs funds to meet those expectations, while still being able to respond to unexpected needs and costs.

In the past the LBC has sought to maintain a minimum reserve of an average one year's expenditure, excluding those restricted for a particular purpose. With the growth in events and visits which generate income for returning funds to those ballet schools and organisations, a simple relationship to expenditure is no longer appropriate. It suggests reserves at a higher level than required.

The Trustees have therefore decided to seek reserves that provide for one year's expenditure to keep the charity functioning and for the annual commitments to student awards. Currently this total is around £12,000. The LBC has free reserves (excluding restricted funds) substantially in excess of this and plans over a number of years to expand charitable donations and further choreographic awards on a sustainable basis.

The Trustees are responsible for keeping proper accounting records and preparing financial statements for each financial year which give a true and fair view of the financial position in accordance with legal requirements. They are required to select suitable accounting policies and apply them consistently; make judgements and estimates that are reasonable and prudent; and prepare financial statements on a going concern basis, unless it is inappropriate to presume that The London Ballet Circle will continue. They are also responsible for taking reasonable steps for the prevention and detection of fraud and other irregularities.

GOVERNANCE AND RISKS

The LBC updated its policies in 2023 particularly in relation to safeguarding, volunteers, guidance for members and financial controls and has clarified its policy for giving charitable donations. It continues to review these on a regular basis. The Trustees maintain a risk register and review it at regular intervals.

The biggest single risk is a failure to attract enough Trustees with suitable experience and skills to maintain and develop its expanding programme and serving a growing membership.

The sound financial position has mitigated some of the risks that exist in holding events and being reliant on membership payments and donations. However, the lack of suitable and affordable venues still concerns the Trustees as well as the technology (its availability at venues and the extent to which Trustees and volunteers can manage it) to deliver an extensive online programme of events. LBC has been able to use the facilities of The Royal Ballet School in the evening on a regular basis and while the cost is at a commercial rate, the expenditure stays within the "ballet community".

The Trustees present their report and examined accounts for the year ended 31 October 2024.

The Choreographic Awards Fund was set up by trustees on 1 September 2023 with the aim of supporting choreographic initiatives in the classical genre within ballet schools and companies. It is intended that awards are made every 2 years with funds transferred from general reserves every year. It was renamed in 2024 in memory of Linda Gainsbury, who initiated the awards when Secretary.

The LBC Gainsbury Award balance at 31 October 2024 was £5,000.

Restricted Funds

The Company of Actuaries made a charitable donation of £2,000 to the London Ballet Circle in 2017 as a contribution towards the move of the LBC Archive to the V&A Museum, which is expected to be completed in 2025.

During 2023/24 a gift in the will of a former member of £1,000 was received “for the enjoyment of members”.

NOTES

- 1 - Gift aid claimed covered the period 1 November 2023 to 30 September 2024. The claim for the period 1 October to 31 October 2024 will be made in 2024/25.
Gift aid repayable from HMRC is recognised as income at the time of the donation.
