

UNIVERSITIES AND CO-OPERATIVE MANAGEMENTExperiment and Achievement at Leeds

The provision of the programme of courses by the University of Leeds began in 1959. That many years on, it seems a good thing to seek some analysis and assessment of this achievement - for its own sake and for the encouragement of other Universities and Co-operative Societies. We are grateful for the reviews by Mr. T. E. Stephenson of the University who has contributed so much to the inauguration and success of the programme: and to Mr. K. Booth of Harrogate Society who has shared so effectively in it.
