COOKIE POLICY

Visitors to our Website and the Use of Cookies

The Wirral Grammar School for Boys' Website uses a number of cookies that stores data on our visitor's computers. Cookies are small text files, used by your Web browser to store visitor session data on your computer by Websites that you visit. They are commonly used on the Internet in order to make Websites work more efficiently and to enhance end user experience, as well as to provide relevant information to the School for market research information. Cookies are not intended to harm your system in any way.

IN SUMMARY

In order to adhere to School policy, compliance legislation and best practice, we keep our privacy notice under regular review and conduct Website cookie audits whenever necessary. This privacy notice was last updated on 16.12.2021.

Our current assessment on the use of cookies on our Website is as follows:

First-party cookies: When someone visits wirralgrammarboys.com, we collect standard internet log information and details of visitor behaviour patterns so that we are able to compile user reports on the number of visitors to the various parts of the Website and their geographical location. We collect this information in a way that does not identify users, and we do not attempt to find out the identities of those visiting our Website.

Third-party cookies: We use a variety of widely recognised third-party plug-ins in order to enhance the end users experience, and to also to obtain marketing information. It is of the School's opinion that the use of any plug-in represents current 'best practice'. We do not have any direct control over the content of these third party cookies, the use made of any data collected, or the security of that data. Any third parties may collect information about your visit to our Website, and they may use this with other data in order to serve advertising that they feel may be more relevant to you.

There is no reason for our visitors of the Website to be particularly concerned about the privacy implications of any of the cookies we use, but we do recognise the importance of making you aware of the purpose and scope of the data stored in the cookies that are created or updated on your computer when you visit our Website.

COOKIE CONSENT

When you visit our Website for the first time, you will be presented with a message asking if you are content to accept cookies from our Website. If you click or tap on "Accept", cookies will be used; otherwise you will not be able to access the site.

You may also choose to delete any cookies from your computer between visits to our Website and we recommend that if you have concerns about the privacy implications of the cookies we, or any of our integrated third party sites use, then you should investigate how to do this by using the cookie management tools in your web browser. Further information can be found in the Controlling the use of Cookies section at the end of this policy.
